Hey peter, I found this on my door just now. Do you know if this is random? Or inspired by your neighbor? He keeps sweeping his forestry over to this side, which is why I wanted the rocks. The ladder- it was kind of just there one day, it may be one of the guys that built the IKEA stuff for me. Just checking it's not yours, and I'll bring it inside. Another IKEA guy is coming today to help finish things up. And UPS keeps leaving labels instead of picking up the returns. So, still working on that.

I have a different issue to tell you about, but it's got its own picture.

There is unfortunately black mold in the walls. I didn't want it to look worse, so I never peeled the flaking paint, but in my cleaning efforts, it flaked off, and now I'm worried about the kitchen walls having mold, bc there is a hole around the utility box, where moisture can come in and the window.

I'm on the way back to the house, I'll come back and check it out

That notice was for me, I was waiting for the inspector this morning, they were supposed to inspect my windows so I can take the stickers off of them.

And I believe that is my latter
